COURSE DESCRIPTION:

When was the last time you attended a palm print class? We're speaking about a practical palm print class on how to quickly and accurately interpret the visual information found in latent palm prints. This three-day course of interactive instruction will not only cover palm prints but also foot, lip as well as ear print comparison techniques that can be used as you are conducting your examinations. Useful techniques for palm print searching include methods for orientation, detailed pattern analysis, distinguishing sections of the palm, creating a systematic search and using a crease(s) or scar(s) for searching, delta interpretation, using computer comparison software and much more!*

The instructors will use lecture, class discussion, and informative practical exercises to apply the techniques discussed. The instructor's goal is to advance the latent palm print analysis beyond the basic search tips by outlining a more efficient systematic and overall easier approach making the work both faster and easier. The student will gain confidence in their examinations and testimony after this course.

Please read the materials to bring to class upon registration.*
